Listening A [Track 09]

Lucy: Hi, Nick. Where were you yesterday? I didn't see you in history class.

Nick: Oh, hi, Lucy. I wasn't in class. I was at a job interview.

Lucy: Really? When did you start looking for a job?

Nick: About a month ago. I'm going to graduate this June.

Lucy: Oh, I didn't know that. I thought you were graduating with me next year. So, what kind of job are you looking for? You want to create websites, right?

Nick: Right. I'd like to get a job creating websites for a green energy company.

Lucy: What kind of green energy? Solar? Nuclear?

Nick: Maybe wind energy or solar energy. I think they're not as dangerous as nuclear energy. Nuclear energy may be clean, but it frightens me.

Lucy: It frightens me, too. But . . . have you ever taken any classes in environmental science?

Nick: No, I haven't. But I'm interested in the environment, and I've done a lot of reading. And I don't really need to know a lot of science to create a website. I just need to take the information and make it look good.

Lucy: I guess you're right. So, where was your interview yesterday?

Nick: At a wind farm.

Lucy: A wind farm? I didn't know there was a wind farm near here. Where is it?

Nick: It's in the mountains, about a hundred kilometers from here. It took me two hours to drive there and two hours to come back.

Lucy: And how was it? Did you like the place?

Nick: Well, the job sounds interesting, and the people were really nice. Oh, and the mountains were beautiful!

Lucy: Sounds good. I hope you'll get the job.
