Hi, Eric,

You're my brother's best friend, so I'm writing to ask your opinion. Things have really changed between Dan and me. When we were in high school, we used to share all our feelings. But now he's always so angry and stressed out.

You're both graduating in a few weeks. He told me you found a job, but he hasn't had any luck. The truth is, he hasn't had many interviews – just a few, actually. He had one last Friday, but I don't think it went very well. He was really quiet when he came home, and he left the room when my parents asked him how it went. I don't know how to help. Any ideas?

Kirsty

Hi, Kirsty,

Sorry to hear this. I see Dan at the library sometimes, but not very often, and even then we don't talk a lot. We used to be best friends, but we're both so busy that all we have time for is a "Hi, how are you?"

If Dan's having trouble finding a job, he may be angry or scared. Maybe he thinks he won't find one. It's difficult to say because we haven't talked about it. I'd like to help, but I can't right now. Finals are this week, and I'm really busy. Give him some time. I'm sure things will get better.

Eric

1. Dan and Kirsty used to have a good relationship. ____
2. Kirsty is criticizing her brother because he hasn't found a job. ____
3. Dan has only had one job interview. ____
4. Eric's relationship with Dan is not as good as it used to be. ____
5. Eric didn't know about Dan's problems. ____
6. Eric sometimes runs into Dan. ____
